PRESS RELEASE

Art Exhibition at Cyprus's two international airports

Hermes Airports is keen to play a role in the cultural life of Cyprus. From 2 September at Larnaka International Airport and from 8 October at Pafos International Airport, art and culture will be on show in a unique exhibition of works by the celebrated Cypriot artist George Erotocritos.

The exhibition "Beyond Boundaries" includes works that reveal the very soul of the artist and draws inspiration from the proud traditions of Cyprus, from love and religion.

The exhibition has already been set up in a special area in the departures (check-in area) at Larnaka International Airport. The exhibition space is accessible to all visitors, whether they are travelling or not. The works will remain on display for the whole of September. On 8 October they will be transferred to Pafos International Airport where the exhibition will remain open for the entire month.

Hermes Airports intends this exhibition to be the first of many, thereby providing leading Cypriot artists with an opportunity to exhibit their work to thousands of travellers, while intensifying the atmosphere of culture that already pervades both Cypriot airports.

The philosophy of Hermes Airports is that Cyprus's airports are not simply places of arrival and departure but living organisms which, together with the travelling public, can experience and promote the excitement of art and culture.
